Meetings

At least five meetings per year; meetings can be held online.

The work of the committee is very important. Committee members are expected to attend all committee meetings and to participate in committee related email communications.

Committee members who do not attend three consecutive meetings (or one meeting in a year if meetings are held annually) will be asked to step down, other than in exceptional circumstances.

Remit

1. To advance quality and equality of patient care in endocrinology across Europe.
2. To pursue alliances with and support all healthcare professionals in endocrinology (clinicians, specialist nurses and allied professions) delivering patient care.
3. To recommend new ESE Focus Area Clinical Leads and coordinate the ESE Focus Areas towards strategic clinical developments in endocrinology.

4. To play a leading role in the development of both European and international guidelines for optimal management of endocrine disorders.
5. To give guidance on matters in clinical endocrinology, including ethical issues, societal consequences, and best practice.
6. To support clinical research in Europe, with a special focus on supporting endocrinologists in less-advantaged countries.
7. To manage ESE's input into European databases/registries for rare endocrine disorders.
8. To support the ESE Education Committee on clinical education activities in endocrinology, as required.
9. To liaise with the ESE Science Committee as necessary.
10. To provide input on scientific symposia and other conference and training sessions.
11. To support the ESE Patient Organisation Network, helping to ensure ESE is actively engaged in an appropriate level of patient support activities.
12. To work with the ESE media representative and ESE Office to ensure adequate and appropriate representation of clinical endocrinology in the media.
13. To work towards the financial sustainability of the Clinical Committee activities.
